Номокомо. Вертемвев 6тн. 1894. Now that the plague has been successfully stamped out and the resumption by the Crown of the district in which the disease was most virulent has been decided upon, the question of how the "little bill" is to be defrayed presents itself for consideration. The amount at debit of the plague account already exceeds $100,000, the resumption of Taipingshau is estimated to cost $750,000. and the improvement of the sanitary service of the Colony now recognised as imperative cannot be effected without a substantial addition to the annual charges. The $750,000 to be expended in the resump- of serving either one country or the other in tion of Taipingshan may be regarded as an investment, but whether the capital will ever be recovered, not to sneak of any interest being carned, is problematical, depending as it does upon what is done with the property after resumption. If the idea of total dem lition and the laying out of the district entirely afresh be carried out the $750,000 may belooked upon as a wholly un. remmerative investment from a pecuniary point of view, for the price at which the land can be subsequently sold will probably not be more than sufficient to defray the cost of the extensive scheme of Tevelling and terracing in contemplation, the re-making of the streets, and the re-draining of the area, on the oth r hand a less sweeping measure be decided upon, the better class of property being allowed to remain and the general laying out of the area not being interfered with a considerable portion of the sum paid by the Crown for resumption will be recovered, though probably far from the whole ofit, for it is generally recognised that land in Taipingshan will never be so valuable in the future as it in important step had been taken within the last has been in the past, and the cost of pulling down or otherwise destroying whatever houses it may be deemed necessary to remove will necessarily be a dead loss. But whatever the treatment ultimately decided upon for the condemned area, the Government will have to resort to borrowing order to finance the scheme, and although the loan may ultimately be partly repaid from the proceeds of the sale of the resumed property it is clear that for some years the Colony will have to pay a considerable aum in interest. Taking all things

Hongkong, 13th July, 1894. NOWONSALE IMPERIAL QUARTO. TNG LISH AND CHINESE DIC''IONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN Pronunctation.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of latey ears been compelled to coin to express the numerous of jects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and inscience generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in entenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercise for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Panti pronunciations are given the gooents being carefully marked on the bes principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby affecting, a vast economy of space, achieving a olearness not previously attained, and disponsing with those vast margine and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English world, and nows is of 600,000 Chinese characters Again despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appl cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with actives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respec the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives thomselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested Chins it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large LONDON: TRUSHER & Co. 80, PATERNOSTER ROW.
